

We are pleased to announce that Gompa (www.gompaservices.com) is opening its much praised webcast platform to teaching centres and cultural organisations worldwide.

The Gompa webcast platform has been specifically designed as an appropriate environment for the webcasting of teachings and related dharma events by senior lamas and teachers:

- Gompa has a fast growing international audience and the Gompa webcast platform is ideal for sharing teachings and dharma events both locally and internationally,
- There are no fees to teaching centres and cultural organisations for webcasting on Gompa,
- Webcasts on Gompa are available to view, with no fee, to the more than 20,000 monks and nuns at the over fifty partner monasteries and nunneries in India and Nepal,
- All those viewing webcasts on Gompa have the option to make voluntary donations to the host teaching centre or cultural organisation – this option to make voluntary donations to the webcast hosts has proved to be very popular,
- The Gompa webcast platform is entirely without advertising; and the data gathered on the Gompa site is never sold, shared or used for marketing or to drive commercial activity, as it is on channels such as Facebook and YouTube.

We cordially invite you to contact [admin\[at\]gompaservices.com](mailto:admin@gompaservices.com) (please substitute [at] with @) if you would like to discuss the simple procedure and significant benefits of webcasting on the Gompa platform.
